Suicide Prevention Awareness Month: Supporting Our Most Vulnerable Community Members

September marks National Suicide Prevention Awareness Month – a month to remember the lives lost to suicide, the millions of people who have struggled with suicidal ideation, and acknowledge the individuals, families, and communities that have been impacted. For those experiencing homelessness, the risk of suicide is significantly higher than in the general population due to mental health challenges, trauma, substance use disorders, and social isolation. You can help by learning suicide prevention basics, creating safe spaces for mental health conversations, connecting individuals to support services, and familiarizing yourself with the 988 Suicide & Crisis Lifeline (call or text 988). For comprehensive resources tailored to housing and homeless services, visit our Partner Resources page.

National Recovery Month: Recovery is for Everyone

This September, join SAMHSA in celebrating National Recovery Month with the theme "Recovery is For Everyone: Every Person, Every Family, Every Community." For housing and healthcare professionals working with individuals experiencing homelessness, this month offers a valuable opportunity to strengthen your recovery-focused approaches and connect with essential resources.

The Recovery Month Toolkit provides organizations with messaging ideas and materials to raise awareness about mental health and addiction recovery in your community. We encourage HHRC network members to explore key resources including stigma prevention strategies, NAMI Family Support Groups, treatment finders, overdose prevention and response tools, and training programs that help bring recovery supports to scale

Take Action This Month:

- Download toolkit materials to share with participants and community partners
- Host a recovery awareness event highlighting housing as a foundation for recovery
- Connect with local recovery organizations to strengthen referral networks
- Share recovery success stories that demonstrate the power of stable housing

Recovery and housing stability go hand in hand—use this month to reinforce how your work contributes to recovery for every person in your community.

Helping Individuals Experiencing Homelessness Obtain Identification Documents

People experiencing homelessness often can't access housing or employment without proper ID, but getting replacement documents can be complicated. HHRC's ID toolkit helps service providers guide participants through obtaining the five most important documents: birth certificates, state IDs, Social Security cards, DD214s, and Green Cards. The guide includes step-bystep instructions, costs, fee waiver information, and tips for overcoming common barriers, such as proving residency.
